PERMANENT HOME OF MUNK COLLECTION

The Doctor's Arizona Library Will Be Given to the Southwest Museum in Los Angeles.

Readers of The Republican have from time to time heard more or less of the famous library collection of Dr. J. A. Munk of Los Angeles, composed of books, papers, pamphlets, official, private and all manner of reports, in fact so far as he has been able to obtain in many years past, publications of any and every kind, issued in or concerning Arizona. This has been done by Dr. Munk for the sole reason that he liked the work, has always been a great friend of Arizona and has always believed that some day such a collection would be of great value to the people of Arizona, directly or indirectly. While the collection is by no means complete it contains thousands of titles, and is the largest collection of Arizona titles extant.

Some time ago M. Salzman, formerly associated with the Border magazine, learning that Dr. Munk was concerned in disposing of his collection by placing it in a permanent place, undertook the laudable project of securing it for permanent installation in the capitol building in Phoenix or some other suitable place. He did this without first taking the doctor into his confidence, hoping to be able when he took the matter up with him, to offer some definite proposition. In the progress of his efforts he enlisted the support of the public library in Arizona, all of whom had him good luck but none of whom could aid him materially through the fact that Arizona, be it said to her discredit, thus far has no territorial museum or institution of a public character where such a collection could be stored, the public library in the capitol being already overcrowded. In any event Dr. Munk, realizing that fact, had made disposition of his collection before Mr. Salzman had matured his plans, so it is lost forever to Arizona. Though falling of success Mr. Salzman is entitled to credit for his efforts in a good cause.

But though the collection has been lost to Arizona, as a home library, if that had to be its fate, it probably could not have been more satisfactorily disposed of than has been done by Dr. Munk, especially when it is understood that so long as he shall live his labor of love will continue in making the collection more and more valuable day by day. How it has been provided for, is explained by Dr. Munk in a letter to Col. J. H. McClintock, recently received, and herewith published in full.

Dear Col. McClintock:

By your courtesy I received Vol. 1, No. 1, Bulletin of the Arizona territorial board of health, which I was very glad to get, and have written the board to send me all numbers of the publication.

I am still finding numerous items on Arizona and gathering in all I can find. It seems as though there was no end to such material, which, I presume, is because Arizona is such an interesting country.

Mr. Salzman, formerly of the Border magazine, has taken it upon himself to start a campaign for acquiring my library for the territory and I have received many letters from several prominent men on the subject. I am glad to know that my library is thought to be of value and interest to the people of Arizona, but I think Mr. Salzman made a mistake in taking this course, as he knew that I had promised it to the Southwest Museum and could not possibly take any different action unless released from that promise. If I had known earlier that there was any such feeling or that Arizona was particularly interested in acquiring the library I would have received the suggestion. But now that it is disposed of I do not see that keeping the library here in Los Angeles will be any particular disadvantage to Arizona. It will be where it will be accessible to all who may wish to consult its history and literature by people living in and out of the territory. It is not yet complete and I expect to add items to the list as long as I live. I am glad to have it here where I can have the supervision of it and where I can consult its volumes when I desire. The Southwest Museum is a permanent institution and is a credit not only to California but also to the whole southwest, Arizona included, and I believe, will make a suitable home for my library.

I felt like writing this to you as you have always shown an interest in me and my work, which I appreciate very much, and if reports about this matter come to you you would know how to take them and understand my position.

With high personal esteem and appreciation of your many acts of kindness to me, I remain, Sir,

Your sincere friend,
J. A. MUNK.

MORAL INFLUENCE OF THE AEROPLANE

The Question of Aviation Seriously Considered From an Ethical Standpoint.

That President McDougall and Secretary Vernon Cook, of the Phoenix Aero club have a deep interest in their new positions, and that the subscribers to the aviation fund have not misplaced their confidence in them, will be evident from the following conversation between these officials, overheard by the office boy:

Mac—"Do you realize, Vernon, that the aeroplane has a wonderful moral influence; that it is something to be looked up to?"

"Certainly do, Mr. Mac," said Vernon; "and what is more, I believe it inspires the most lofty feelings, in fact, nothing I know of is more calculated to uplift mankind."

"Probably," the most remarkable fact," continued Mac, "is that the aeroplane is really the highest form of sport, and, at the same time, affords the surest and quickest way to rise in the world."

"That may be," said Vernon, "but they tell me these aviators are a hot-headed set, that is, they go up in the air on the slightest provocation."

"I hardly believe that," replied Mac, "although I must admit they are all a trifle flighty. Taking them all in all, Vernon, you will find that they are men who often occupy very high positions, and may well look down on ordinary mortals—all of which one might expect, for the avocation of aviation is certainly uplifting—it elevates one."

"Do you think, Mr. Mac, asked Vernon, "that any speed records will be broken at the Phoenix meet?"

"I don't know," replied Mac, "but it is a remarkable peculiarity of aeroplanes, that those that are noted for their speed are nearly always the ones, when in actual flight, that are capable of attaining the greatest velocity."

MUSICAL COMEDY CO. AT THE MAJESTIC

Permanent Stock Organization Will Open February 3.

Pretty girls and clever comedians will again rule at the Majestic theater. Every since the American Musical Comedy company closed at the Majestic theater there has been such a demand on Manager Echlin that he finally decided to inaugurate a permanent musical comedy stock company. Mr. Echlin consulted with Willis G. West, who is permanently located in Phoenix, and whom everybody knows off the stage as "Willis" and on the stage as "The Skinny Dutchman," as to what his views were in regard to a permanent stock company. The conclusion reached was that a mediocre company would not pay; that Phoenix must have a company equal to the best traveling companies on the road, if not better.

Mr. West immediately associated himself with James P. Lee, one of the cleverest character actors on the coast, and they engaged Miss Lillian Sutherland, one of the cleverest sopranos in the country. Miss Sutherland at first declined the offer of West and Lee to come to Arizona, but after much persuasion she finally decided to accept an offer which in a monetary way she could not afford to refuse. Miss Sutherland arrived yesterday from St. Louis, where she had been playing an extended engagement. Her first remark on being asked why she came to Arizona, was "Why? Well, it's summer here. When informed that it was always summer in Phoenix, she said, "I know I will like Phoenix and everybody in it." Miss Sutherland is winsome, vivacious and clever.

Another stroke of good luck by Messrs. West and Lee was in securing Fred Lancaster, a lyric tenor of exceptional ability and a capable actor. The chorus secured are young girls picked from the best companies in Los Angeles, and are said to be the best singers and dancers ever seen in a musical comedy outfit of New York city. The other members of the company who have not already arrived will come on Monday and be fully rested and prepared for the grand opening Thursday, February 3. Costumes and wardrobes are all new.

The comedies to be produced have been chosen from the late Fred Baldwin's successes. The chorus and musical numbers under the direction of Fred Baldwin will be a feature with the new show. Popular prices, 10c, 20c, 30c, will prevail.

FAMOUS BEAUTIES NEVER GET FAT

Womanhood wonders why famous beauties grow old, but do not grow fat. They live at slimmer ease, amid the porcelain flesh pots. The wine, that puffs out obscure mortals, flows not liberally down their alabaster throats. Yet their life-long loaf does not thicken their limbs nor double their chin. What is the secret of the long-lived gracefulness of the haughty?

One-half ounce Marmola, 1/2 oz. FL. Ex. Cascara Aromatic, 3/4 oz. Peppermint Water. This is the famous Marmola Prescription, long familiar to the fashionable pharmacists of the world and their clientele, but which has only recently penetrated to the knowledge of the hot polio of womanhood. Since then, for convenience sake, it has been put into elegant pocket form, the Marmola Prescription Tablet, which can now be had of with any druggist, fashionable and ordinary, or the Marmola Co., 313 Farmer Bldg., Detroit, Mich., in large cases for seventy-five cents.

With this tablet any woman can reduce, by losing a pound a day, in a few weeks; take off fat (where it shows most) on chin, abdomen, hips, etc., without need for exercising, table restraint, fear of wrinkles or the slightest physical harm or uneasiness.

Sealed bids will be received up to 10 a. m. Wednesday, February 2, 1910, by the Dairyman's Co-operative association for better feed of approximately 1,000 cows for a period of one year. All bids must be accompanied by a certified check for $500 as evidence of good faith. The Dairyman's Co-operative association reserves right to reject any or all bids. All bids to be forwarded to and in the hands of J. A. Higgins, R. F. D. 2, before 10 a. m. February 2, 1910.

CITY AND COUNTRY CONGRESSMEN.

Congress is not a lure to city men. There are so many rich rewards of a private character in cities, political office often goes begging. Men of large ability are not attracted. Lawyers prefer the big fees at the bar. Business men see so many chances to invest money or find big salaries so comfortable they keep out of politics. It is only occasionally that a city man of large professional or business success yields to pressure, and enters the rough-and-tumble of public life.

In the towns and in rural parts the ease is different. There congress passes a charm. There the young men read about Washington and how the wheels go round at the capital, and they want to take a hand in the game. Young Websters of this day want a chance to reply to the Haynes of the present. Young Shermans want to teach the senate finance. Young Canons want a chance at the gavel. Seven thousand five hundred dollars a year is a mighty sight of money to them and they strive for it.

For the seat in the house made vacant by Mr. DeArmond's death there were half a dozen candidates and balloting continued for a week before the democratic nomination was made. Senator McLaurin's death produced more than that number of candidates for the vacant seat, and all Mississippi is alive to the contest. In the Georgia district in Georgia there is a scramble, and of those engaged are men of good local weight.

This is no new feature of our political life. Almost from the first we have drawn many of the most valuable and capable of our national lawmakers from outside the cities. Men from the small towns or from the country have led in both houses of congress. The leaders there at present are, with one or two exceptions, men outside of city life.

Mr. Aldrich is a city man, though Providence is not a large city. Mr. Money is from a small town. Mr. Bailey lives in a town. Mr. Cannon comes from a farming section. Mr. Payne's district is upstate, far from the maddening metropolis. Mr. Clark hails from the Ozark country. Mr. Underwood's home is in Birmingham, which is just beginning to be a city.

It has often been noted that the country-bred or village-bred man, when of intellectual quality, is as a rule full in his reading for his opportunities and a sound reasoner. The quiet of his early environment makes him attentive and aids him in the concentration of his faculties. Later, when he gets his chance, he shows the fruits of his training, and often goes to the front and stays there with no great difficulty.—Washington Star.

CONSUMPTION and all lung troubles positively cured at home. A God-send to sufferers. Write today. J. Y. Hagerty, Box 98, Nevada City, Cal.

CHRISTENING THE CLOCK.

What the Englishman Heard It Called Rather Surprised Him.

Said the Englishman who had stood planted in the snow for ten minutes staring at the Metropolitan Tower: "What do you call it?"

The New Yorker said: "Metropolitan Tower."

"I mean, what is your pet name for the clock?"

The New Yorker repeated a few choice epithets that had been applied to that clock by person whose morning and midnight rest it had disturbed. "Oh, I don't mean that, either," said the Englishman. "Don't you call it Old Ben or Old Bob, or old something or other as a mark of affection? Not Well, that is one phase of American character that I cannot understand. You seem utterly lacking in imagination in naming objects of general interest. Time after time a tower, a clock, a church, a tomb has been pointed out labeled with its proper name. But what is its nickname? I ask, and always the answer is the same, 'It has none.' Such indifference is unknown in our city. Why, if this clock were in London it would have been christened with a term of endearment before it had been up two days."

Just then the Metropolitan chimed good-bye and a nervous New York man trudged past.

"There goes that damned clock again," he growled.

"Dear me!" said the Englishman.—New York Sun.

JULIANA IN HOLLAND.

Vast Increase in Busy Cheerfulness Since She Arrived.

Photographs lately published of the little Princess Juliana of Holland show her as a chubby, intelligent child, with laughing eyes. The queen looks a different woman since the arrival of her daughter and heiress to her crown.

It is said that the atmosphere of the Dutch court is quite changed. The queen and prince general cannot bear to have the infant out of their sight for long. As to the interest which the peasantry of Holland take in one princess, as they call her, it is wonderful, and their knowledge of the primitive facts of her brief career extensive and accurate.

A gentleman in an official position who lately visited Apeldoorn, and who on every other occasion of his setting foot in Holland obtained an easy audience with the queen, could not anyhow gain an entrance to her presence. According to the Gentleman, he was told that Queen Wilhelmina had now no moment to spare for any other thought that was not absolutely necessary to the state.

NOTES ABOUT FASHIONS.

Blue and lavender bugles and beads are used for embroidering lace and net, crepe de chine and liberty silk.

Tiny link coin purses are in favor. They are made so small as to fit in the palm of the hand under the glove.

Stuffed linings are in vogue colorings. Burgundy red, Robin Hood green, French gray, peacock blue, and gun-metal.

The ponskin coat continues in high popularity, though it is not the garment for occasions of first importance.

Bishop sleeves are in the height of fashion, and they often are trimmed with bands, forming the sleeve into puffs.

Challis and albatross are among the fabrics used for attractive negligees.

Heels continue high, but they are thicker and more substantial than last year.

Coats distinctly separate and for dressy wear are long and rather full.—Boston Herald.

Vigorets.

A tiny, chocolate coated tonic laxative tablet that gives VIGOR and health to the STOMACH, LIVER and BOWELS. It cures:

Sick Headaches, Biliousness, Sallow Complexion, Torpid Liver, Dyspepsia, Jaundice, Heartburn, Dropsy, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, Pimples, Sour Stomach, Distended Bowels, Nausea, Foul Breath.

Take only one "VIGORET" at bedtime and they will move the bowels gently yet thoroughly each day and permanently cure—

CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

They cool, cleanse and purify the blood and are sold by all druggists in 10c packages (25 tablets) and 50c in trial size (15 tablets). Sold by Larson Drug Co., Elvey & Hallett, and Bear Drug Store (opposite city hall).

TEA GIVES COLOR OF STYLE TO SILK.

Bise—the creamy, delicate shade of old lace—is extremely fashionable now, and lace guineas and yokes, as labots in this that are particularly good style with cloth costumes for fall. If real old lace is not obtainable a very good substitute may be made with ordinary tea. This tea should be quite weak, and, of course, without milk or sugar, which would make the lace sticky and stiff. There has been a fad in Paris this summer for frocks of cream batiste trimmed with this blue lace, and the color is really far more softening and becoming than dead white.—Boston Globe.
